CIVIL AIR SERVICE INCREASES

ARMENIAN CIVIL AVIATION USEFUL -- Kommunist, No 147, 24 Jun 49

Armenian civil aviation carries on a great many useful operations. Planes are used to combat pests in vineyards and orchards and to destroy malaria breeding places. During March, April, and May more than 150 tons of spare parts for tractors, combines, threshing machines, and other agricultural machinery were flown from Yerevan to Karun and Basargechar. During April and May more than 150,000 grape stalks were flown in from the Moldavian SSR for the use of the Ministry of Agriculture Armenia.

Air passengers now receive drug and medical service aboard plane. Stewardesses have been added to the plane crews.

In Yerevan, 15-minute flights over the city have been initiated to acquaint the population with air travel.
